Central Makes a Futile Attempt to Win Back the Buffalo Switchmen.

Another and final attempt to obtain just and peaceable settlement of the trouble on the New York Central road was made by the Kuights this morning. At 10, 50 o'clock General Master Work. man Powderly, with John Devlin, the Western member of the General Executive Board, left the St. Cloud Hotel and took a crosstown car to the Grand Central Depot.

Chief Sargent of the Firemen, Chie Sweeney of the Switchmen, Chief Wilkinson of the Trainmen and Chief Howard of the Conductors remained behind at the Powderly and Devlin made their way o the office of the General Manager o the New York Central road and asked to see Mr. Toucey.

Manager Toucey received the First & Co. will ship by the steamship Alliance to-day 150,000 ounces of fine silver in the friendliest manner. Chairs were at once given them, and a messenger was sent for Vice-President Webb.

Mr. Webb was found in his office dozen feet away and he readily responded The oil market was very weak, Ohio oil A hearty handsbaking ensued and then General Supt. Voorbees came in and it was agreed to spend a few minutes in the discussion of the troubles.

He declared that his lips were sealed as to the result of the mission until he had reported to the conference of Chiefs at the St. Cloud Hotel,

"Nothing definite has been decided upon yet," he added, however.

Chief Devlin was asked "What news?" and declined to give any information.

As soon as the big Knights had left the Grand Central Depot General Manager Toucey rejoined Vice President Webb.

The General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor took lunch at the St. Cloud.

Another meeting between Powderly and the Vanderbilt interest was subsequently arranged for 5.30 p. m., and it was reported that powerful influences were at work to secure a harmonious adjustment of existing difficulties. If these efforts fall a general strike will no doubt be ordered this evening.

ALL EXCENTAINTY.

"Do you think the Knights have the power to extend the strike if they wish to do so?"

"Yes."

Chairman Howard and Grand Master Wilkinson both said that no conclusion had yet been arrived at, but histed mysteriously that there might be some important developments later in the day.

The Murder of Robert McNeill Graphically Told in Court.

We heard him coming and furned him. Which is the that ruined my home? Throw no rour hands? he believed frantically, and my hands went up quicker than lightning.

But Weeps as He Sees His Wife in the Room.

We heard him coming and furned my hands with up quicker than lightning.

"As soon as he wired him the side-walk together. Less than half a minute later I heard and fell on the side-walk together. Less than half a minute later I heard another shot.

"Me Neil rose to his feet, staggered away gaping, and finally fell dead on the side-walk, two doors away," concluded Mr. Brown.

TRACK WAS VERY SLOPPY.

Charles Crumley, an actor, fifty-six years old, who has for ten years played the role of "Clem, the Nigger," in Bartley Campbells "White Slave "Company, under the stage name of Charles Webster, was arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court, before Justice Gorman this morning, charged with a murder so cold-blooded, deliberate, and familiate in its execution as to be almost without precedent in this citr.

the case set down for examination next and ay afternion.
When stepping down from the stand in front of the Magistrate. Webster saw his wife, who was weeping in the crowd of spectators.

Then his stoicism left him, and he reached forth his hands to her, while tears streamed from his spea, and he tried to say something, but could not.

Fearing a scene the Cautain hurried him into the prison, where he will be kept pending the examination.

CHARLES CRUMLET. Mrs. Webster is only thirty-five years old. a handsome, plump brown-haired woman, fond of society and good living. Her husband is miserly in his habit.

The company with which he played was a road company, so that for the greater part of the vear he was away from home.

Around last Christmas holidars Mrs. Webster, being losely on account of her husband's absence, took a Mr. and Mrs. Acker is room in her apartments. Acker is engineer of the Chelsea Flats and afriend of McNeills, who was engineer of the Van Boren Estate Eunding on Union Square.

Acker to room in her apartments, acker is engineer of the Chelsea Flats and afriend of McNeills, who was engineer of the Van Boren Estate Eunding on Union Square.

Acker introduced McNeill to Mrs. Webster. They became good friends, but there is not the slightest scintilla of proof that they ever were anything more to each other.

There never was a hint of scandal attached to their friendship until last May when Mrs. Webster.

About the middle of June Webster came sign it, that I may die easy.

When the paper was put before him the stek man raised himself paintuly on one handsome, plump brown-haired woman, irs. Webster.

About the middle of June Webster came home. The company with which he had been playing hal disbanded for the season. He had always been known as lealons man, but since his return the passion seemed to be intensified.

A RUNAWAY.

but I did not speak to them," she conclints! The culmination of the tracedy was graphically described in court this morning by Mr. Brown. He is a grav-baired old man, elate-one years old. He said: It was about 0, 30 when Webster came slong where the three of its Irish. McNeill and myself, were discusing the trombe. As soon as he saw its learning the bonse and returned with a big jostol in his hand, We heard him coming and turned towards him. RACING
